

Addressing Family Violence and Abuse[®] (AFVA)

NAFFA identifies domestic violence as true identity theft. Identity theft is illegal. This course covers how to support families struggling with domestic violence and describes the innovative and culturally relevant ways that address this vital issue. In addition, we discuss universal principles and provide unique insight into the challenges faced in dealing with this matter. The training will define this devastating problem, explore contributing factors, and discuss sensitive ways in which victims and abusers overcome the cycle of abuse. We address the necessary component of developing courage, which is critical for change to come. Changing fear to becoming fearless (courageous).
